

Another Loch Lomond and Trossachs National Park meeting shambles

Description

Board Meeting 13th Decem

To protect staff and customers from risk and prevent the potential spread of the virus, o with a reduced capacity.

As a result, there will be limited spaces for members of the public to physically attend the December 2021. Due to COVID-19 protocols, the maximum number of attendees will be allocated on a first come first served basis. Please contact committeeclerk@lochlomond to attend. A face covering will be required while inside the building and 1 metre social dis

This meeting will also be webcast live for public viewing.

The livestream of the meeting will begin at 10:00 and run until approximately 15:00 – at the meeting.

Please be advised that should there be a technical issue with the webcasting during the continue.

Screenshot 10.09am today

The Loch Lomond and Trossachs National Park Authority (LLTNPA) Board meeting today was meant to be held both on-line and in public at the National Park HQ. With the wave of Omicron sweeping the country, I fully expected the meeting to be cancelled but the notice (above) was up last night and still was this morning. As soon as the meeting started today it was clear that it had been moved online:

Screenshot c10.10

While the LLTNPA must have devoted some effort to alert Board Members and prevent them turning up to Balloch needlessly, no-one thought to alert the public. By 10.30 the LLTNPA Board was earnestly discussing how they would engage the public in the new National Park Partnership Plan...if we do the process well...oh dear!

If you want to observe the proceedings they continue until 3pm. There is a deputation at 1.30pm about the proposals to upgrade the A82 along Loch Lomond, something the LLTNPA Board has so far failed to consider, which should be worth watching (see here).

Category

1. Loch Lomond and Trossachs

Tags

1. Governance
2. LLTNPA

Date Created

December 13, 2021

Author

nickkempe